Adlers' Collegian Suits and Overcoats

You never buy a Suit or an Overcoat on the spur of the moment. For days or weeks you have carried a mental picture of the suit you want. You see your self in that suit—know just how you look; then you go to hunt for it, and somebody sells you something "just as good," but the first love lingers and you are never quite satisfied, because you did not get your suit at all you got some other man's suit. Let us show you the correct garment. It's a Shirley Owens is employed in A. V. Parmelee's furniture store during the holidays.

Can you tell who would occupy the White House if Mr. Taft should die before inauguration?

A business meeting of the NYB will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Mathews next Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Wallace Adams and family have moved and are now comfortably settled in the house on the Willard Welch farm southwest of Yale.

O. F. Karn informs us that he is gathering up horses to ship to Eastern Markets. If you have anything suitable let him know at once.

Mrs. E. F. Pratt's class in the Methodist Protestant Sunday school held a coffee in the church parlors last Friday evening, netting them $8.55.

Articles of incorporation of the Chippewa River Power Co., Port Huron, $10,000, were filed with the secretary of state, at Lansing, on Dec. 17.

Rev. J. M. Turner has resigned from the first Congregational church at Utica and accepted a call to the Ross Memorial church of Port Huron.

Lila, the five-year-old daughter of Lee Broadway, on Friday evening fell and broke her arm. Dr. Turrell was called and set the broken member.

On and after Monday, December 28, the stores of our city will close each evening except Saturday at 6 o'clock. Bear this in mind and plan your shopping accordingly.

Lemuel Brown, residing southwest Yale, had the misfortune to get his hand caught in a corn shredder on Friday last and before he could extricate it two fingers were severed from the hand.

All Masons are requested to meet in the Hall at 10 o'clock a. m. next Sunday, Dec. 27, and from there to go to the M. E. church where Rev. R. O. Lawton will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion.

Splendid programs were presented in the various rooms of our public schools on Friday afternoon by the pupils of the different grades. A goodly number of visitors were present and applauded the efforts of the young ones.

The series of sermons by Rev. Case on "The Ten Commandments" is attracting unusual attention and the Presbyterian church is so well filled every Sunday evening that chairs have to be placed in the aisles. The subject for next Sunday evening is "The Tenth Commandment—Thou Shalt not Swear."

The Rounds Hardware Company have been instituting a few changes in their store the past week. The different goods have been re-arranged and a new silent salesman show case installed. The change made gives the firm more room and not only makes the store look neater, but makes everything handy.

In some mysterious manner Friday evening, while near J. E. Vincent's farm east and south of Yale, Dr. Wright's horse broke its right hind leg. The horse stopped and laid down and upon examination the doctor perceived that its leg was broken. Dr. Stevens went out and found it necessary to shoot the animal. The Dr. is at a loss to know how to account for the accident.

Monday, Dec. 21, was the shortest day of the year. The sun rose at 6:57 a. m. and set at 4:04 p. m., giving nine hours and seven minutes of daylight and fourteen hours and fifty-three minutes of twilight and darkness. Altho Dec. 21 is the shortest day of the year Dec. 19, 20, and 22 differ only a few seconds. Dec. 21 marks the beginning of the winter solstice, when the sun begins its apparent journey northward from the Tropic of Capricorn.

December 17, 1908, was the fifteenth anniversary of the establishing of the Memphis Bee. The first copy was gotten out under adverse circumstances but the paper has steadily improved until now it is always full of good, readable news, and attractive ads. Strange as it may seem, while the town has greatly improved in appearance, the population has decreased by a goodly sum in fifteen years. There must be something radically wrong with the town.

"Cascade Falls, Yosemite Valley" is a calendar from the First National Bank of Yale which adorns our walls. The painting is by Thomas Moran whose scenic pictures have taken high honors everywhere. Such a gift from an institution where one's banking business is transacted under most pleasing conditions is very acceptable to us and we return thanks. Ed. Eilber, the harness man, also has our thanks for a pretty calendar entitled "Ready for the Round Up."

On Friday evening, December 18, occurred the wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hillock when about 35 of the Junior Aid members came and surprised them. They brought with them plenty of fine lunch and coffee and a nice cake. Mrs. Hillock was a member. The night was an ideal one and the sleighing fine and the crowd certainly had a good time. All left wishing the host and hostess many years of happy wedded life.

Rev. P. J. Cullinan received the news this week which he selected some time ago for the Sacred Heart church. They are of oak and finely finished and certainly will add greatly to the appearance of the church. There are twenty double pews on each side of the center aisle, each double pew being 12 1/2 feet long and seating eight persons. The total seating capacity is 320. Workmen have been busy this week installing them, so that they may be used for the Christmas services.

Frank Lovell Nelson has written many "Master Mind" stories. They have attained a world-wide fame. He has often been requested to dig up more and he has done so with the result that the high water mark is reached in a feature article, "Carleton Clarke's Zinc Case," which will appear in the next issue of this paper. It's the best ever produced in the Master Mind line of stories. It's for you. We want you to read it and enjoy it. It's strong point is a telepathic and hypnotic battle. Then, too, there is opium smuggling, the great white plague, the union of two young lovers and the uncrowning of a king among criminals. In our edition of January 1.

Saturday was a very busy day for our merchants. A large number of rigs lined the streets of our city, and the walks and stores were crowded with Christmas shoppers. People for miles around have learned that Yale is the place in which to do their trading as the merchants are up to the minute and every advertised bargain is a real bargain. Get the habit of trading in Yale.

Manager Williams of the Glove Factory advises us that the strike that occurred there among the girls Dec. 16th has proved a decided benefit inasmuch as it ridged the factory of the poorer class of workers and enabled him to place girls at the machines who are proving their colors and will reach the maximum speed in a short time. As soon as they do so they will make $1.00 or better per day.

A. V. Parmelee has installed a rug hanger in his furniture store which is certainly handy. It consists of a double track across which, wheels to which are attached, run from the side of the store to the center. The rugs may be pushed back out of the way when not in use, and when to be shown they can be pulled out into view. Mr. Parmelee has also added another cabinet for Edison phonograph records and has a large supply always on hand.

The administrator of the Estate of Isaac Roberts, deceased, is contesting several claims where Mr. Roberts became surety on notes and bonds for others. At the hearing in the Probate Court on Monday last the claim of the First National Bank of Yale on a note held by the Bank was taken up and allowed in favor of the Bank for the full amount claimed. John M. Kane represented the administrator and J. A. Rapley was attorney for the Bank.

Timber Sale.
